

Cover your Malö for the winter with the mast still stepped.

More boat owners these days choose to winterise their boat with the rig in place, whether the boat is stored on land or stays in the water and finding a suitable cover for your boat when the mast is still attached, is difficult.

A large “wall to wall” tarpaulin is too heavy and ungainly to get into place.

A new solution for Malö Yachts has been developed by LK Kapell in Kungsviken which consists of a smaller, custom made middle-section to cover mast and rigging screws.

With this middle-section in place it's much easier to create a good fit using smaller tarpaulins to cover bow and stern.

For more information please contact:

LK Kapellmakeri, 073-512 13 25
email: lasse@lkkap.se

Text and photo

Kay Kjellgard

